GIFTS AND BEQUESTS TO AMERICAN LIBRARIES, 1911

In the following list of gifts and bequests to American libraries in 1911 are included gifts of money, buildings, building sites, books, miscellaneous and undescribed items.

Mr. Carnegie, as heretofore is the principal donor, no noteworthy amount of money having been given by any other individual. Mr. Carnegie's donations for 1911 are more than double what they were for the preceding year. Cash donations from other sources are over $250,000 more than in 1910, the full amount of money given to libraries in 1911 being $1,462,137.03 more than in 1910. The book donations which have been of sufficient size to warrant inclusion in this list total nearly three times those for 1910. The gift of the remarkable collection of books, manuscripts, photographs, original illustrative material, and other matter on the native races of North America, Hawaii and the Philippines, amounting in all to 33,407 items, from Mr. Edward E. Ayer, of Chicago, to the Newberry library forms one of the principal features of this year's report. This is without doubt one of the most superb collections in the world.

Following is the financial summary:

From Andrew Carnegie	$2,326,370.00
From other donors	1,038,452.69
Total	$3,364,822.69

In addition to these money gifts the following were reported:

Number of volumes as gifts	65,575
Sites for library buildings	6
Buildings presented for library purposes	7
Miscellaneous and undescribed items	32

Unless otherwise stated the gift is to the public library of the place indicated.
